All you'd show is love, yet all I'd see is hate
You know that something's wrong, I know I can't relate Wind is blowing pleasure by and I don't feel a thing
Emotion fills the sky, erosion clouds my brain

I can't seem to breathe in, I can't seem to see then Through the deafening silence of pain
Imprisoned by this selfish reign
(With no more rules to bend)
I think I'm breaking down

And if I had just one more day
I'd tell you everything, everything I had to say, I miss you
And if I had just one more day
I'd show you one last thing, honesty believes in fate
And fate is what I've gained

Strength has come and gone, so now I lie in wait
The void is never long, the core belief in fate
I've been down this lonely road, before I know the way
As situations change the answers will remain
Now I've got a reason as time has brought new seasons
To carry me from this pain

Ripping through myself is gain
(With no more rules to bend)
I think I'm breaking down

And if I had just one more day
I'd tell you everything, everything I had to say, I miss
you
And if I had just one more day
I'd show you one last thing, honesty believes in fate
And fate is what I've gained, fate is what I've gained

I've been down this road, the answer's still the same

And if I had just one more day
I'd tell you everything, everything I had to say, I miss

you
And if I had just one more day
I'd show you one last thing, honesty believes in fate
And fate is what I've gained

And if I had just one more day
Fate is what I've gained
If I had just one more day

And if I had just one more day
