

Feeling, The "When I Return"

Visit "When I Return" on MotoLyrics.com

I've traveled far just to look
At the stars from a new place
They look just the same
From the hills and the planes

Yes, it's true, you gave it all to a fool
How could I know how I'd fair without you?
'Til I was gone, gone, gone

When I return I will be better than, better than before For I will have learned what your medicine is for
When I return, when I return

You and your face and your hair
And your tastes made me leave you
You and your all giving smile
All the while made me go

So I lived in the east, I lived in the west
I did it all without a penny
I lived twenty days in a hornet's nest
And didn't get stung hardly any but I still miss you

Ooh, when I return I will be better than, better than before
For I may have learned what your medicine is for, ooh
When I return, when I return

When I return I'll love you better than, better than before, oh
For now I have learnt what your medicine is for, oh
When I return, when I return

Visit Feeling, The page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.