The place where you abandoned me
Take me from yourself
Take yourself from the world
You seemed to be aging by the minute
You are getting older
and past your peak

You traced my very path but you never had a clue what my loneliness meant We have more than enough of everything I never had a chance to interpret myself

Oh, If the present looks like the past what will the future look like ?
what will the future look like ?
I can't remember the meaning of life

The place where you abandoned me
Take me from yourself
Take yourself from the world
You seemed to be aging by the minute
You are getting older
and past your peak

what will the future look like ?
what will the future look like ?
I can't remember the meaning of life
