Stayed in bed all mornin' just to pass the time to unwind
I wrote a rhyme ripped it up and wrote some more lines
Lookin' out my window saw an eagle fly by, the vibe's
Up on the fire escape, the steps I takes when I climb

Yo, I gets higher than the size of a high rise, y'all realize
I be starin' at the skyline through some Technicolor eyes
I see the rooftops with their colors none are ever the same
And I got many colors in me you couldn't capture in a frame, yo I gets

Red when I gets heated I be blue when I'm mistreated Yo my parents separated when I was a kid I wasn't defeated 'cause life is down to throw you some curves
And yo you gotta be strong and move on

Colors in the sky reflectin' the light
Celebratin' life and it feels alright
There's room upon the palate for you and I
So why can't we just

You and me kid we down to spray paint the sky Gonna check out all the colors as they intensify how high Shades and tones together they electrify Ayyo, sometimes I'm introspective find a corner and hide

Invariably the fantasy is sweeter than the real Holla
So many intangibles and things that you ain't feel
On the surface like rooftops that bask in the sun
Clich and Egrave's a dime a dozen Beez are buzzin' feel it come on some 'bout the Green like moneymakers clock the cream like they in Vegas

Livin' dollar to dollar runnin through they every wages and

My life be what I makes it in this celluloid fling uh See me and Carole King up on a rooftop singin' up on the roof

Colors in the sky reflectin' the light
Celebratin' life and it feels alright
There's room upon the palate for you and I
So why can't we just

Paint in every color and reflect the light
We doin' it together and it feels alright
There's room upon the palate for you and I
So why can't we just

Took a little walk lost track of the time
Wrote another rhyme and the flow's still divine Gazin' down on Broadway at the neon signs
Like Q-Tip say Joni Mitchell never lie

And ya don't know what'chu got in this life
Ya finally find, ya canvas and ya color it bright
Like I told ya on the record still got time to shine
Never know what'chu find inside
