There are people who make doorknobs, lightballs and plastic cups everywhere you go There are seven millions stories, most of them are boring, strange things I have know And the big wheel never stops, know it's a long shift, it's a weird trip
It's a fair cry from the good life, never stop
Takes a lot of soul

It takes a lot of soul, takes a lot of soul
It takes a lot of soul to be real

It's a hard call, it's a brick wall and you fall Revolutions, revelations settled for temptations and just let go
It takes a lot of soul

It takes a lot of soul, takes a lot of soul
It takes a lot of soul to be real

There's a piece in every knowing, days just come and going, everybody flow Well after twenty-thousand mornings, maybe it should darken, everybody go Once that did come back and say it's warm light, it's a good night
It's the last flight, I'm alright, welcome back
Takes a lot of soul

Takes a lot of soul, it takes a lot of soul
It takes a lot of soul to be real
It takes a lot of soul, takes a lot of soul
It takes a lot of soul to be real
