She wrecked it good
Should have left him nothing
Not even the barrest, the bone, the skin

She wrecked it good
The bond, the home, the truth, the waist, the shell the peace, the place, the bed, the feel, the dream, the base

Wrecked it good, as good as it gets
And you can't get away with that, easily

And if it was a home and you were living there
You wouldn't be pissing on the floor
If it was a home and you would tear it down
Well, you better wreck it good
Not at all
