about time that i work this out those small things that you talk about these notes on my hand have all but faded away now you add insult to injury

so long my lady
it's too late to save me i'll be walking on
with two arms to hold me
and two eyes to see right through me hold your breath 'cause this won't take long about time that i let you know some things that i've been afraid to show this is getting all too real up until now i've been so ashamed to feel

so long my lady

always; our ways
always; our ways
always; our ways
always; our ways
always; our ways
i sever these limbs to set me free i turn down the lights and throw you off so i can prove that i'm all talk and i'm not going anywhere
