words used carelessly they often allow the otherwise unguarded truth to come out its on the tip of your tounge, you want to say that you've been there before bu-ut you wait you say your mind has changed you say you won't come back again to another lonely place with a strung-out lonely friend cigarettes, clearly intend to make themselves a problem

playing catch up with the world all day and long silences that no one breaks we'll regret trying to keep these things inside forever and wonder why we turned out this way with all the promises we could've made words sound slurred tonight and mine allow everything you want is said to come out sorry i never got to tell you the things that you wanted me to say bu-ut, you can wait

you say your mind has changed

its too much to take and, and enough to give away and as your day's are fading better cut your losses and walk away

and long silences that no one breaks
we'll regret trying to keep these things inside forever

watchin' speechlessly, become aware what good is sight when nothing's there? i'll trade it all for the knowledge in the world

what good is sight when nothing's there?

long tea-time, lackluster, love my own fault, myopia long tea-time, lackluster, love my own fault, myopia...

and long silences that no one breaks
we'll regret trying to keep these things inside forever
