"4 hours"

Yesterday faded, the night invaded
And the face on my clock stares down from the sill
The moon is bleeding upon my ceiling
Now all that I've got is four hours until

The break of dawn
The frost covered ground
The night is gone
And far from this town

I watched a slight change from black into gray
And now soft shades of red are on the sky line
The moon is grieving upon my ceiling
Because the day ahead means he's out of time

The break of dawn
The frost covered ground
The night is gone
And far from this town

If daylight can find
The cracks in my blinds
I will move on
And face the dawn
I will move on and face the dawn
