I miss you tonight in the company of new friends
I can't seem to speak my mind
The city is so real, the people look through me
And everyone knows my sign

All that I see
All that I see here is you

I'm wreckless out here where time has no meaning
The nights seem to last for days
But the time that I spend and the ones who are with me

They don't pretend to stay
All that I see
All that I see here is you

And it's too late, it's too late to try
Separation is so hard to find
All that I see here is you

So listen up now
For the sake of my own life
This one is for you
