Without a word, you set your sights into the sun when all the world, you put to rights was still so wrong

Pin your heart out on your sleeve spouting all that make believe from your lips it seemed it might come true falling down the mountainside with you

The clothes you wore, the people stared you looked so strange to see you move, St. Vitus dance was in your veins

Never once afraid to know, what it feels like when you go out beyond where logic keeps the view falling down the mountainside with you

If you were here first thing I'd do is knock you down you left me cold, to meet your ghost all over town

So grind the stone and spin the wheel lock the doors, on what you feel looking back, it's like i always knew I'd be falling down the mountainside with you

falling down the mountainside with you
falling down the mountainside with you
