He spins round in circles every day
A trunk breeding calmly a hidden decay
Though embers within a hollow, cold display
The status of mind turns numb
The other one4s using reason and word
Fighting the decay by breaking chain and curb
The fire inside serves not to frighten and hurt
A thinking mind is never dumb

So the fate will take its course and there is nothing forever to be
Says the snake while dulling the mouse: "" Have a guess, my friend, who4s like me ?""

Refrain:
I am the crown of creation
I4m nature4s worst mistake
Praying devout for salvation
I kill for my god4s sake
Gifted with many graces
Though gentleman unkind
I see and dream beyond spaces
I am so blind

He4s able to play a part of Gaia4s role
Destroyer or saviour, the life-bell to toll
A curse or a boon, what out of her womb he stole Disorder or balance in his hand
See waves rising higher, as rain tries to count
The victims of wind4s rage and trembling ground
Volcano sends greetings with an angry sound
A menace he still cannot stand

I don4t believe, there will be an end, I4ll live forever
although some may die
Like a turtle, old and wise, asking out of my shell: ""
Who am I ?""

Refrain

Maybe for myself I burn

Maybe in my head I turn
Maybe I will never learn
Maybe I know nothing
