it must be something in the way you move it must be something in the way you look I'm not sure just yet must be something in the way you dream you just go home and the thirteen days inbetween you and I

this is me before I come undone this is me before I fall apart
I've been tired for days and days

innocent like you gave in just like you always would it must be something in the way they say and the magic that you bring in between all you imply

this is me before I come undone

it could have been a month or it could have been a year but I I gave up long before long before you cared her art inspired me to
to do my best and to paint my music like like I saw it best and she says I grew up well well, well I grew up strong cause no one's got my back no one's gonna write me my songs
it could have been a year but I
cause I've been tired for days and days

I've been tired for days and days and days
I've been tired for days and days and days
I've been tired for days and days and days
I've been tired for days and days and days

it could have been a year but I
like I saw it best and

it could have been a year but I
I've been tired for days and days and days
I've been tired for days and days and days
