We woke up one day and I said stay away it was christmas to be, we had cried until three yesterday she had asked me that thing i didn't want to hear can you bring love to me, and it rang in my ear i was gone

i loved her it's true from the start but that love has slipped out of my heart and it was christmas my god what a thing that this was the present to bring
oh no

she said for how long have your feelings be gone i said for a year and this is what i feared all along a star shined so bright in our window that night but it melted our hearts and it drove us apart she was los

and it was christmas my god what a thing
oh no
