first time I looked straight into her eyes I saw the future, I saw bluer skies oh oh oh oh oh

Even when im lonely I am always surprised all of the ways you told me to keep my eye on the prize

You and your photographic memory
You and your photographic memory

Im a broken man,Im damaged goods Lock me in the basement with furnace soot

You came along in your party dress
I climbed a mountain under house arrest

When we were kids I swear we were power lines Out on some journey searching for some better minds

You cant cut it out, no you cant keep it out of line

Looking for the pavement Looking like were running out of time

And I am yours and you are mine

Batten down the hatches and man the sails The war isnt over, its not even tipped the scales

Run down the tracks like a bat out of hell

Dont muss up your hair because were destined to fail

When I was young I thought I was a power line

When I was young I was searching for some better time
