To much noise this morning
Like new buildings falling down
But you clap your hands because your dreams are boring
You get up and start throwing your thoughts around
The pavements crack and the cars are stalling
Everybody wears their frown upside down

This is not the world
This is not the air
This is not a crime
This is not a care

Disgusting and dirty , we spoiled ourselves completely
We used to take it easy, humble and discretely
The pavements crack and the cars are stalling
Everybody wears their frown upside down

This is not the world
This is not the air
This is not a crime
This is not a care

To much noise this morning
Like new buildings falling down
The pavements crack and the cars are stalling
Everybody wears their frown upside down

This is not the world
This is not the air
This is not a crime
This is not a care
