It seems that every time we move ahead then we've got to take another step back again
It seems that every time we move ahead then we've got to take another step back in a world where meditations are confused with expectations and lack of preparation, with surprise Beyond this mass confusion is a mystical illusion a set-up for a blessing in disguise

The great power of the gentle one is a power we can only measure in time The great strength of the gentle one that's a strength we can see in time There ain't no strength in anger just a real and present danger unless you pull the veil off your eyes.
Challenges await us and temptations that will bait us are a set-up for a blessing in disguise

There's a message that we all must hear Either live in love or live in fear Live in fear and you're crawling through shadows live in love walking under a rainbow Thunder may be warning of a tempest that is forming but question not the method of the skies Head for better cover watching out for one another and a storm becomes a blessing in disguise
