Weightless, that's how I'm feeling
Though I know I'm still falling into you
Loneliness, long since washed away
Ever kept at bay since I met you
Well I think it's time I said for sure
You never need to be alone
I'm going to be right here each and every day

When stars collide, collapsing into one
The light fills the universe, and shines on everyone
Torches in the night sky bound by each others gravity
And when stars collide, exploding into space
Wrought to a single sun, to burn up in grace
Candles against the dark skies, melt into one another's
flames

Sweetness, oh darling
I'm so grateful that I'm your lover
I've never wanted any other, since I met you
If you'll let me love you as much as I can You'll never need any other man
I'll be your only one, in each and every way

When stars collide, collapsing into one
The light fills the universe, and shines on everyone
Torches in the night sky bound by each others gravity
And when stars collide, exploding into space
Wrought to a single sun, to burn up in grace
Candles against the dark skies, melt into one another's
flames

When stars collide...
When stars collide...

I know there's nothing we would fear
If you were my world and I was your atmosphere
Ever protecting and keeping you warm
