She wasn't born yesterday
Not in the Summer of '69
Papa knew she wouldn't stay here
She had to roam

She hitched a ride to Hollywood
With a gleam and her eyes on the stars
Now she doesn't know who she is
And she's a long, long way from home
Tell us what you feel
As you're living in your new disguise
Tell us what you see
As you're looking through your eyes

He wasn't born an only child
Not on the Fourth of July Mama he wouldn't stay still
He had to roam
He hopped a train to Hollywood
With a dream and his old guitars
Now he doesn't know who he is
And he's a long, long way from home

Tell us what you feel
As you're living in that new disguise
Tell us what you see
When you're looking through those scarlet
eyes
Tell us are you real
As you're living through that new disguise
Tell us what you see
When you're looking through those scarlet
eyes

Welcome to the Stars
They all hope you enjoy your stay
But don't fall too far Cause you're a long, long way from home
