What's the point of trying
To bring you back if you're getting what you want...
The clock will run and I hope you know
Those stupid games weren't meant to last that long.

Right now the truth be told we tend to loose control, but never sight of the plans we'd realize ever since I could remember we've dealt with the changes you have gone through

And now you're lost but you have found
you have found (and its your friends you've forsaken now)
you have found
That you are happy where you are...

(Chorus)
Now what's the point of trying
to bring you back if you're getting what you want
the clock will run and I hope you know
those stupid games weren't meant to last that long...

It's over
but as bad as it may seem,
its worse to know you're wrong and that you'll never accept it.
And its not a lack of time;
its more a lack of holding on to what we dream, just to keep them waiting...

(Chorus)
Now what's the point of trying
to bring you back if you're getting what you want
the clock will run and I hope you know
those stupid games weren't meant to last that long...

Now im done with lies that was my last try to save you...
We've reached the point where my gains are your loss and I wont let you turn those tables...
