Evening sun is sinking low
My thoughts unclear, 'cause I don't know
Where we went wrong, what made you want to part
The house we used to call our home
Feels cold and empty, now you're gone
All you left is a man with a broken heart

The band still plays our favorite song
But I can't stand to dance alone
Drown my memories, drinking at the bar
Wished this beer would numb my brain
Wished this wine would take the pain
I've felt since you left a man with a broken heart

This old heart of mine is falling down
Thousand pieces scattered all around
When you walked out, my dream world fell apart
All you left is a man with a broken heart
All you left is a man with a broken heart

I've cried and prayed to heaven above
Bring me back my only love
I might as well be wishing on a star
Guess that all's been said and done
You packed your bags and now you're gone
All you left is a man with a broken heart

This old heart of mine is falling down
Thousand pieces scattered all around
When you walked out, my dream world fell apart
All you left is a man with a broken heart
All you left is a man with a broken heart
