She don't dream of spring in Paris
Or jettin' off to Singapore
She just needs a quarter tank
To get her to the grocery store

She don't buy filet mignon
She just wants some extra pork in her beans
And it may not sound like much
But that's the stuff that makes up a poor girl's dream

She's tired of haulin' baskets
Down to the laundry mat
Dealin' with the weirdos
And the stress of all of that

She'd rather put her dollar
Somewhere other than a washin' machine
Well, it may not sound like much
But that's the stuff that makes up a poor girl's dream

If you've got a million, you want two
If you ain't got nothin', any little thing will do

She works on the clock
Punchin' in and out for years
She'd like to take that double shift
And shift it down a gear

Go home and light a candle
Paint her toes a different color and just breathe
It may not sound like much
But that's the stuff that makes up a poor girl's dream

Yeah, if you've got a million, you want two
If you ain't got nothin', any little thing will do

A little piece of mind
Just a taste of what could be
Well, it may not sound like much
But that's the stuff that makes up a poor girl's dream

And it may not sound like much

But that's the stuff that makes up a poor girl's dream
A poor girl's dream
