We built a little playhouse
With a front porch swing
A white picket fence
The American dream

Step by step, stone by stone
And now you're tellin' me
That you wanna be alone
The walls are fallin' all around me, now

You wanna tear it all down
Tear it all down
You're rippin' out what we put up
Demolishing this house of love

Tear it all down, tear it all down
Now, when your soul foundation cracks
It's hard to put the pieces back
When you tear it all down

Before this thing crumbles
You better think it through
'Cause you're gonna have
To live with what you can't undo

Day by day, night after night
The truth is gonna hit you
Right between the eyes
You're gonna see the wreckage all around

When you tear it all down
Tear it all down
You're rippin' out what we put up
Demolishing this house of love

Tear it all down, tear it all down
Now, when your soul foundation cracks
It's hard to put the pieces back
When you tear it all down

Step by step, stone by stone
We built this house into a home

For you to tear it all down
Tear it all down
You're rippin' out what we put up
Demolishing this house of love

Tear it all down, tear it all down
When your soul foundation cracks
It's hard to put the pieces back
When you tear it all down
