Dreaming through a lonely window
Looking at life's beauty's
Thinking about what could be better
Sorting out its duty's

And catering to thoughts
Sitting on this window seal
Facing the sky
And wondering if it's real

Life's so spontaneous
It's lie a fairytale
So you ask yourself
Why does it sometimes fail

Dreams are all around you
Floating far and near
But it's hard to grasp them
When you're filled with fear

Things are sometimes
Looked at, as bait
But if you look really hard
You'll see it's purely fate

Hearing the sound of a symphony
Full of love and serenity
And realizing the fact
That everyone has a destiny
