Beyond You

echos from a distance place in time ancient questions haunt us asking why we're the first is this all that you want us to believe and the treasure is beyond our leap beyond you there's another paradise beyond you we see another light beyond your sight if there's more to know about cairo tell us now your temples leave us cold who you serve is not the power you grip so tight are the treasures beyond your eyes beyond you there's another avenue Beyond you we see another truth beyond your view

our demise
your disguise
it's the lies it isn't whether we were here it's the lies we'll come together if they're here
our demise
will befall you

ahhhhhhhhh

when the red dawn breaks upon the face do we see ourselves staring back from space who are you to say that you know who we are when our treasure is beyond the stars beyond you there's another paradise
beyond your sight

who we choose is who rules
who we choose is who rules
who we choose is who rules
