You've never looked so picture perfect, but i'm an open book now every white page will be turned to grey and every second spent was worth it we have the scars to show that what a way to end a perfect day
You never seem to change,
You never seem to change,
You never seem to change and maybe one day you'll be happy we can remove those scars and fill each others hearts with bliss or you'll die alone with a gun in hand a rifle to your head and i'll find you there and i'll find you lying

You've never looked so picture perfect,
and every second spent was worth it
we have the scars to show that
what a way to end a perfect day
You never seem to change,
You never seem to change,
You never seem to change

You never seem to change (i can't come down) You never seem to change (too far gone) You never seem to change (to be found) let me know when you're awake so i can lift your damaged grace i'll be there to hold on to pretend your arms are wings.....

You've never looked so picture perfect,

and every second spent was worth it
we have the scars to show that
what a way to end a perfect day
You never seem to change,
You never seem to change,
You never seem to change
