

Orton Beth

"She Cries Your Name"

Visit "She Cries Your Name" on MotoLyrics.com

Falling from the western selves

To find yourself alone again

Wonderin' where you have been.

Your lonely voice

Calls across the star lit coast

Reaching out to be seen.

She cries your name

Three times again

She cries your name

How long can this love remain?

Cut beneath the surface screen

Of what we say and what we seem

Is a truth to be seen?

She keeps cryin out your name

But her scream sounds the same

How fickle fate can be...

She cries your name

Three times again

She cries your name

How long can this love remain?

Birds would scream for territory

Can learn to sing euphorically

Give a hand time and hands ring out

And there's a wasteland in your soul

The burned out trees would leave you cold

Leave a hand out and I'll deal

She cries your name

Three times again

She cries your name

How long can this love remain?

She cries your name

Twelve times again

She cries your name

How long can this love remain?

Visit Orton Beth page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.