(chorus)

I made a choice that seems to be the right one
Unlike the many I have done, to become,
Your splintered body
I simply took the proper time to think about
All the choices I have done to become
Your splintered body

My head is spinning, my eyes are dry
A positive reaction that I could not quite describe

(chorus)

I made a choice that seems to be the right one
Unlike the many I have done, to become,
Your splintered body
I simply took the proper time to think about
All the choices I have done to become
Your splintered body

My lips are sealed now, my arms are tied
A positive reaction that I could not quite describe

(chorus)

I made a choice that seems to be the right one
Unlike the many I have done, to become,
Your splintered body
I simply took the proper time to think about
All the choices I have done to become
Your splintered body
