It's six o'clock and I just got home
I've had a hard day but that's okay
And I'm gonna be fine cause I'm going out tonight
So why do I feel so nervous
Why do I even care
Oh, it's so damn typical
Don't know what I should wear

So I put on my dress, put on my shoes
Put on my face, put on my jewels
I went and put on everything
Oh waiting for you
Then I saw myself and I put on a smile
I feel more excited than I've been in awhile
I feel more excited than I've been in awhile

And I'm feeling high, I'm feeling high
I'm feeling high, I'm feeling high
oh I'm feeling so high

It's eight o'clock and we're driving
Down Melrose Avenue
We stop off at a restaurant
But I can't stop staring at you
And the waitress is so pretty
But you just don't seem to care
Cause we've been laughing and talking all this time
And we're slowly getting there

And I wonder if you're feeling like you never ever felt before Cause I do, oh baby I do
It's like that strange familiar feeling that we've known each other once before Cause I do, oh baby I do, oh baby I do

And I'm feeling high, I'm feeling high
I'm feeling high, I'm feeling high
oh I'm feeling so high

It's six AM and I just got home...

And I'm feeling high, I'm feeling high
I'm feeling high, I'm feeling high
oh I'm feeling so high
