Wayne Kirkpatrick

Caught in a world of rhyme and reason

Logic is like a thief

Robbing me of my inner healing

Questioning my belief

But in Your quiet I hear only You

Teaching me what my heart already knew

Chorus

You are my lifeline

You are my sanctuary

You are my torchlight

This is my testimony

Rivers of darkness raging through me

My spirit is underfed

Ebony dreams of carnal knowledge

Are swimming inside my head

But when doubting leads me to the water's edge

You are the One who saves me from myself

Chorus
