"The Key"

Looking in my mind, I can hear it
It's so hard to find, inside of me...and I'm thinking
How can I hear a voice inside, when all I have is deafening
Makes me turn away
It's all too few, and far between
And I find, all of me...and I know
You'll help me find the key
I've been looking out here for some meaning
Can't help it solve the math, or help it move the stone
I've been saying to God, The Father and Jesus Christ
How can I leave here in cowardice?
Can you move the stone?
It's all too few, and far between
And I find, all of me...and I know
You'll help me find the key
Only in my head...am I breathing?
Can it be unknown? Can it stay anonymous?
I'm afraid of your healing!
It sanctifies the evil thoughts
It lies beside the sorrowful
And in me, finally
It's all too few, and far between
And I find, all of me...and I know
It's all too few, and far between
And I find, and I know all of me
You help me find the key
