"You Can Go Home"

I went back to my hometown
Christmas snow was on the ground
Saw the girl who used to be
Everything in the world to me

We went down to my old school
Walked the halls remembering the rules
Thought of friends who used to be
Everything in the world to me

My family moved far away we never did return
That girl found someone else to love
Here's the one thing that I've learned

You can go home and that's a fact
You can go home but you can't go back

Saw the house where she used to live
Saw the park where we first kissed
Saw the dreams that used to be
Everything in the world to me

Everything in the world to me
Now just a faded memory
All these years I heard it calling me

You can go home and that's a fact
You can go home but you can't go back
You can go home and that's a fact, that's a fact
You can go home but you can't go back
