when your lights go out tonight and your stars lose their blinding light you will dream of small change you will weep for him again and I'll watch over you on this long night and the trees play tricks on you and the wind hums its awful tune you can hear the sound of far off late night t.v you can feel the clouds cover you up
and you'll know I'm there by the time you hear this tonight.
