i dreamt of heights last night of broken down cars out of sight you looked so cold at four sleep-stealer knocks down your door keep dreaming my dear don't let the dawn hear 'bout riches and kingdoms river's so sheer i know you've been there your ocean turned green then grey the morning had shown up late the make-believe day's on its way so throw away your hopes and feelings keep breathing my dear don't let the dawn hear 'bout where you've been hiding the morning's so bare
