It all feels wrong tonight
These drinks are strong
And I hope one of these days
I'll learn to make it on my own
Not feeling strong enough
It's too complicated to settle up
But one of these days
I'll learn to make it on my own
How could I know
How could I know
I never should have let you go

So what's the point in waking up
When everything around me is falling?
I'm stuck inside my head and can't get out
Can you hear me now?
What's the point in waking up
When you are not around and I'm calling?
For someone just to help me find the ground
So I can come back down

I stared into the light
Made more mistakes than I care to explain
Or even want to let you know
I'm feeling stronger now
I wish I could make it up somehow
Cause I can not stand another day alone
I should have known
I should have known
But still I let you go

So what's the point in waking up
When everything around me is falling?
I'm stuck inside my head and can't get out
Can you hear me now?
What's the point in waking up
When you are not around and I'm calling?
For someone just to help me find the ground
So I can come back down

I am moving on

Won't you send me off
I know I can be loved again
Hear me now
I'm calling out

So what's the point in waking up
When everything around me is falling?
I'm stuck inside my head and can't get out
Can you hear me now?
What's the point in waking up
When you are not around and I'm calling?
For someone just to help me find the ground
So I can come back down
