Where does the time go

Spinning my wheels

Standing still

It's like running on ice

I only gain a little distance when I fall

How did I become a molecule

In the concrete of this city

Indifferent to my endless motion

In a space too small to see

Nonetheless expected to be

I only get a little attention when I fall

Chorus

And I'm falling

Falling down

Falling

Falling down

Cursed with reason

In a world so defiant

Without conclusion

This is the story

The story we live out

And it is the moral too

Look at me I'm falling for you

Shaking, crying

Hating lying to myself

I'm tired of telling myself it's OK

To be this tired

This sick and tired of the turns the world takes

And the people that it makes us be

And lately it appears to me that

Chorus

I'm falling down
