

Granati Brothers, The

"The Sun, the Wind, and the Sand"

Visit "The Sun, the Wind, and the Sand" on MotoLyrics.com

She burns like the morning sun
Her love is like air
Her light has made me feel like I'm young
She's the wind, always there
She takes on any shame and won't weep
Like the desert sand, I can leave my print
And sink in so deep
Still I'm me, the man that I am

If it ever rains in the desert - It's all the tears I've cried
From all the pain and all the hurt
The fears I've left behind
I found the truth in the sun and the wind and the sand
Diane

She took me places I'd never been
Her heart bleeding gold
She looked right through my glass house of pain
With a soul as deep as the sea
Her words told a story I dream
With the sun in her eyes
She said, 'It's bigger than you and me'
Now I'm free, she let it be

If it ever rains in the desert - It's all the tears I've cried
From all the pain and all the hurt
The fears I've left behind
I found the truth in the sun and the wind and the sand
Diane
I found you with Mother Nature holding my hand
Diane
The first time I know love
Now I know who I am

Visit Granati Brothers, The page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.