Can you remember waking up one day to find the sun shining on your day And then you sit right back and recall where you came from, and know that you're ok What if we were never sad, we would not know that when we smile we come alive You arrive 5 minutes late, but if on time you could have changed your life that day You see we never really know when our time's up starting today

And have you ever been a 1000 miles from home but still met someone that you know
And then both play along to catch up some sweet day, but never make that call We may see a million faces in our lives but only some we get to know
And when you forgive, then you must learn how to forget and understand to let it go

When you walk out that door when you miss someone that you've seen or you can't find the words that you need When you should not fall in love or you're learning to believe
Or you walk away from something bad to be free Then you can know - only you can know that is was meant to be

And when you look into the eyes of someone you want are they really what you need?
Or is it just the fact you can't have what you want or maybe it's not meant to be And although friends will come and go within your life you know the best ones they always stay So don't you wait around for something that you want
If you can have something today.
