You could find yourself just wondering why
Even the toughest days, don't seem that tough at all
And maybe everything you're doing now
You give a little more as you stretch the days somehow

And when the summit of life you're reaching for,
It finally does arrive, well you spread your arms and fly, or even sit at home and play any role you like You've got a little more, it's the meaning to this life

Yeah what do you say?
Come on then, just tell me how it is now?
what do you find so confusing
Life is what you are

Do you love, what you feel
Whatever that you want, you just reach
And you can never hold your hands out too far baby now
If it's what you want, if it's what you need

Crazy sunshine warms our skin to red–addictive too
I know, like that smile of yours in my head
We could sit outside and play any role you like
You've got a little more, it's the meaning to this life

Yeah what do you say?
Come on then, just tell me how it is now,
what do you find so confusing
Life is what you are

Do you love, what you feel?
And you can always hold your hands out
too far baby now
This is what I want, this is what I need
