It's getting light again.. there goes another night of the year
It still looks like clouds could be the hills 'cos my eyes don't see and my body's growing old to use Just what movement I need to move you You start something you thought you'd see no end to

Maybe... will some things just get better?
But something tells me I no longer live

In the eyes of you... give me light of day and the one thing that I believe in
Is getting through this somehow
Many eyes of stone, well they better feel Better feel now the colours fading
'cos I don't believe they're real

I bet you've seen a movie (I bet I know) got to the stage where the lover goes (Is this where I am? I will be wanting you so)
And still feel the hurt when the lover deceives but you don't know me (and I am not on my own but you'll now be gone)
I tried to get out down inside for you
And now the one time that I strayed baby
It brought back what I needed
But too late to just save it

Maybe... will some things just get better?
But something tells me I no longer live

In the eyes of you.. give me light of day
and the one thing that I believe in (you stood by so long)
Is getting through this somehow
Many eyes of stone, well they better feel Better feel now the colours fading
(you stood by so long)
'cos I don't believe they're real.
