And I swear it's the last time and I swear it's my last try and we'll walk in circles around this whole block walk on the cracks on the same old sidewalks and we'll talk about leaving town yeah we'll talk about leaving

I swear it's the last time I swear it's my last try

We rode across that bridge all night we talked our way through city lights traced all the lines we're killing time under those buzzing signs from downtown to anywhere but here tonight yeah I swear to these rooftops and just hoped that car would never stop we drove around this place all night past closed signs and familiar sights we're moving by passing time counting those center lines with 20,000 lines left to go that lead to somewhere I don't know it might be the time that we leave this all behind there's been a few times that we thought it felt right to take all the westbound signs and just leave town tonight
