maybe one day soon i could finally pull my eyes out of ny skies and set my glance onto a different series of events so fleeting that they'd grasp our hearts in the same way life has yet to do in pa in pa i'm chasing something new its too late im too late dave just keep driving though this is what living should be chances and new memories honestly this is what july should mean please always stay and be all about hey changing flats and bumming cigarettes watching sunsets from the back i told you that chasing daylight only leads to darker nights our time to shine is here right now to let it slip in faded doubt and all these times we've heard your lines no you cant no you cant no you cant now its our time to show that we can make something of ourselves
leave these skies to my eyes to my eyes ill watch you
