Still obey these trees, this great blockade
It feels just like some film, some film to me
What do you need from this, from this land well worn
Did you let it make your head feel lighter than air?
Climb over this sharp rock, this mound of green
You can turn to look and see you'll see the sea

We can't choose, every cell can tell
We can't choose, every cell can tell

All these roads, father feels close
I knew this way, but I've got to...got to be sure
How much breath can you take, you've steadied this heart
It beats in time to each heart here before
What do you need from this, from this land well worn
Did you let it make your head feel lighter than air?

We can't choose, every cell can tell
We can't choose, every cell can tell

We can't choose, every cell can tell
We can't choose, every cell can tell
We can't choose, every cell can tell
We can't choose, every cell can tell

Every cell can tell
