hey!!

well i woke up today and rolled out of my bed, the sounds of your voice still ringing in my head, cause i can't seem to put the past behind, well in my dreams you'll still be mine as i see her face and as you feel the pain and as i watch you go to the game again and as you see her face and then you feel the pain i know you will not last i know you will not stand i know you're far away

the hardest part of letting you go, it seems you're so sad when you call me on the phone, well i don't know why we have to play these games make up your mind its killing me as you see her face

and then you see her face and then you feel the pain

its over you left me i guess that dreams are never made,
i gave you my heart and you went and threw it all away, my soul and self-respect have all been tossed down to the drain, the reason, the gaze that caused me to never be the same, i'm trying so hard now to be the way you want me to even though out you go to do whatever you wanna do i want this so badly, so much you'll never even know this is my last good bye.

i know you're on your way
