What's the point You won't be there Fortunately no one cares

You despise You despair Why don't you get angry Don't you care

What do you think I came here for I just wanted to see What do you think I'm looking for I don't want to believe

You already knew it You already knew it

It takes too long It's not enough There's nothing left And now he's gone again He's gone again

What do you think I came here for I just wanted to see What do you think I'm looking for I don't want to believe
