Your whole foundation crumbles unstable making irony the answer to everything fall to your knees only to watch your dreams be slaughtered I suffice your reigning is over dead inside I suffice the shame dead inside we follow the road to self destruction this culmination it all makes perfect sense disease is spreading I am this opposition the light you follow will be the dead end every stride you take creates another hollow footstep I will never be a stepping stone a solution for an insecurity this grudge is just a shallow attempt to substitute the missing piece that continues to shatter your perseverance slowly depleting hiding begging for love no one cares burn your crown and suffocate you.
