Swept from my heart shedding excess skin shape tomorrow start fade away and loathe sacrifice for what I believe bleeding eyes set them free devour sense of self submit this trust to no one these walls are permanent patience will never answer I am your only hope these are confessions of a madman struck with devotion searching for the truth erase what I have written forming a new destiny capture the essence of purpose I weep will be the last time I see will be the last time I dream will be the last time crying will be the last time.
