"Choosing"

I guess I need to choose
But today I am confused
And losing ground
Is this part of some plan
The rise and fall of man
I can't be sure
When I'm away from my source of peace
Something fills that space in me
And it feels like I don't need you
It's easy to get by
When I don't even try to Find the truth
Today I learned that faith

Is not to be obtained like a place I can go
It's more of a choice than a feeling
And more of a wound than healing
The act of believing in you
And I guess I need to choose
But today I am confused and losing ground
But maybe this is where I grow
When I admit that I don't know
When belief becomes the only way to you
