Looking up, eyes half open,
A purple orange atmosphere catches my attention
Not enough to free my mind of her smile
But maybe I need it (I need it)
It's every kiss we shared
That took away our thoughts

Breathe in breathe out
You're not alone I am always near
Breathe in breathe out
I'm just around the bend
The other side of the world

Her eyes so beautiful
The sky couldn't stand a chance
Through distance we will find our way
I want her more and more each day
She was the better half of me
It's the every tear she cried
That saved me from the oceans tide

We will run as we grow old
Isn't that the beauty of things to come?
That we can share them one by one.
Everything I am
Everything I was
Take it all
Every second chance
Every silent glance
Take it all
