In the silence all I hear, is the burning of the candles In the darkness all I see, are the shadows of the shadows

And yet it feels so bright, and time stands still Today becomes tomorrow as morning breaks the night
And turns a world of heartfelt sorrow into joy
And darkness into light

When I consider heaven's gift and yet my soul -- so undeserving
A fount of love that never ends and a spirit ever serving

And then it feels so bright, and time stands still Today becomes tomorrow as morning breaks the night
And turns a world of heartfelt sorrow into joy
And darkness into light

In the silence all I hear, In the darkness all I see,
A fount of love that never ends, for my soul so
undeserving

As you're kneeling by my side and you lift your heart to heaven,
My spirit's eyes are opened wide and my soul can see forever

And then it feels so bright, and time stands still
Today becomes tomorrow as morning breaks the night
And turns a world of heartfelt sorrow into joy
And darkness into light
